

Need help with Groceries?

Cars Don't Count!

Have you ever been denied food stamps because they told you your car was worth too much?

Did you not even apply for food stamps because you thought you'd have to sell your car to get help?

The Law Has Changed: Cars don't count!

As of January 1, 2004, cars don't count when you apply for food stamps in California. You can own a reliable car and still get food stamps to buy groceries. Other food stamps rules still apply: you can't be earning too much money or have too much money in the bank, etc.

If your car has been stopping you, apply for food stamps today!

Do it for yourself. If you have kids, do it for them.
